

Organisers:

ACADEMIA EUROPAEA

Supporter:

Programme on the impact of Brexit on science in the UK and the remaining EU 27

When: May 8, 2017, 13.30-18.00 hours UK time (on the occasion of Europe Day – May 9 – which celebrates the 1950 “Schumann Declaration” when it all began for the EU).

Where: Royal Institution, 21 Albemarle Street, London W1S 4BS, UK.

1.00pm – 1.30pm	Coffee and tea
1.30pm – 1.40pm	Welcome by professor Lauritz Holm-Nielsen, president EuroScience
1.40pm – 3.30pm	Panel on the impact on UK science and innovation
3.30pm – 3.50pm	Break
3.50pm – 5.40pm	Panel on the impact on science and innovation in the remaining EU-27
5.40pm – 6.00pm	Wrap up and closing

Among the panellists are:

- Prof Dame Janet Thornton, Director-emeritus European Bioinformatics Institute, member of the Scientific Council of the ERC
- Prof Alex Halliday, Physical Secretary and Vice-President of the Royal Society
- Prof Nicole Grobert, Oxford University and Williams Advanced Engineering Ltd
- Prof Mark Ferguson, Director General, Science Foundation Ireland, and Chief Scientific Adviser to the Government of Ireland
- Prof Ole Petersen, Vice-President Academia Europaea
- Dr Rolf Tarrach, President European University Association

Moderators

- Mr Clive Cookson, Financial Times
- Prof Gail Cardew, Professor of Science, Culture and Society and Director of Science and Education, Royal Institution