

ALESSANDRO CAVALLI (born in 1939). Formerly professor of sociology at the University of Pavia where he began teaching in 1967. He studied Economics and Business Studies at the Bocconi University of Milan from which he graduated in 1963 with a dissertation on Economic History. He then studied Sociology at Yale University and at the University of California at Berkeley as Harkness Fellow of the Commonwealth Fund (1965-1967). He has also taught at the Universities of Siena and Bolzano. Member of the Committee for Economic, Statistical and Sociological Sciences at the CNR – National Research Centre -(1972-1975), Member of the Executive Committee of the International Sociological Association (1982-1986), Max Weber Gastprofessor at the University of Heidelberg (1989), L. Leclerq Professor at the Université Catholique de Louvain-la-Neuve (1994), Fellow of the Collegium Budapest, Institute for Advanced Studies (1995). Member of the Editorial Board of the Enciclopedia delle Scienze Sociali, Institute of the Enciclopedia Italiana Treccani (1984-1998), Director of the Rassegna Italiana di Sociologia (Italian Review of Sociology) (1978-80), Il Mulino publishers(1994-2002), Editor-in-Chief of “Mundus”, journal of didactics of history. Former chairman of the “Associazione Il Mulino” (2003-2009), former Chairman of the of the Scientific Council of the IARD Institute for youth education and development, former Vice-Chairman of the Associazione Italiana di Sociologia, currently Member of the Academia Europaea, Non-resident National Member of the Academy of Sciences of Turin, Chairman of CIRSIS (Centre for Studies and Research into Systems of Higher education)of the University of Pavia. He was also(2002-2004) in the Ministry Commission for the revision of secondary school curricula. He was a member, from its inception until 2008, of the Governing Council of the Schools Foundation of the Compagnia di San Paolo. In 2010 he was awarded the Antonio Feltrinelli prize by the famous science institute L'Accademia Nazionale dei Lincei.

His fields of study and research: German social thought between the XIX and XX centuries, the Sociology of youth, education, time and memory. Current research projects concern: the teaching profession, a comparative study of higher education, key career orientation in adolescence, a comparative study of the problems of territorial dualism: North-South Italy, East-West Germany.

He is the author of more than 200 publications in Italian, French, English and German and is a Member of the review boards of a number of journals, both Italian and foreign.